

Brian Stolarik is a Senior Program Manager with Northrop Grumman's Cyber & Intelligence Mission Solutions Division. He has more than 21 year of technical and management experience in the aerospace & defense industry. Brian has led engineering teams and programs for many federal customer's including the U.S Navy, U.S. Air Force, U.S. Army, U.S Department of Justice, U.S. Defense Intelligence Agency, and NASA. He is currently assigned to Northrop Grumman's start-up team for the recently won U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Homeland Advanced Recognition Technology

(HART) contract. Previously, he served in positions with Lockheed Martin in Springfield, VA, Carnegie Group in Pittsburgh, PA, and as a Vice President of the WVHTC Foundation in Fairmont, WV. Brian earned undergraduate degrees in both accounting and electrical engineering, as well as a master's degree in electrical engineering, all from West Virginia University. Brian lives in Morgantown, WV with his wife, Jessica, and son, Bryan.